What if Love?

Love has touched us all, for some, love has died.
To some, love is cruel. But still for love we cry.
We look in all the places, where love was found before,
But find it only in a glass, just to lose come early morn.

Through many years we've hurt, because love has passed us by
Yet alone a young man gave his life. In love, for our sins He died.
We always cry from broken hearts, only to find our tears in vain.
But all the tears in a broken world, could never seal my Lord's cry of pain.
Are we so blind in this world we live, to see the pain and suffering of our neighbour.
Are we so deaf we will not hear, the cries of our sister and brother.
Love has always been with us. It never went away.
It was MAN who broke the LAWS OF GOD to follow greed, lust . . . and went astray.

What I tell you know, though old but true

To love is to give the best you can, to all who you care for, be them friend or foe,
And LOVE is what is shared between a woman and a man.
